

Kratos Awarded Foreign Military Sales Weapon Systems Task Valued At Approximately $6.6 Million

New Engineering Assignment Brings Total Task Order Funding to Approximately $71.5 Million

SAN DIEGO, May 20, 2009 (GlobeNewswire via COMTEX News Network) -- Kratos Defense & Security Solutions, Inc. (Nasdaq:KTOS), a leading national security, IT and public safety solutions provider, today announced the award to its Madison Research Division in Huntsville, Alabama of a new 18-month Engineering Assignment (EA) valued at approximately $6.6 million. This fully-funded EA award for continued support and sustainment of Foreign Military Sales (FMS) weapon systems comes under the company's existing multi-year support task order with teammate ARINC Engineering Services, LLC. This award brings the total funding of all tasks awarded to Kratos under this contract to approximately $71.5 million.

"This task order award once again demonstrates our ability to provide top quality weapon systems support to our government customers in a timely and cost-efficient manner. Our Technology Initiatives group has consistently received new engineering support tasks because of their exceptional performance," said Richard Selvaggio, Executive Vice President and General Manager of Kratos' Madison Research Division and the Weapon Systems Solutions Sector. "Our expertise in complex systems allows us to efficiently integrate customer requirements and translate those requirements into the most appropriate valued products."

Kratos provides a full spectrum of critical sustainment, engineering, systems analysis, integrated logistics support (ILS), fabrication, and manufacturing capability to support its FMS customers. These support efforts include the transition of new technology, reverse engineering, electronic circuitry and systems, materials, and components from the DoD and commercial sectors to solve obsolescence problems.
